cōsultum, cōsulti, n.: a decree

spolia = arma

opīmus, -a, -um: splendid inconditus, -a, -um: unusual canere = canunt

aedēs, aedis, f.: temple

Iuppiter Ferētrius: Jupiter Feretrius

eā tempestāte = eō tempore libram pondō = "one pound, by weight"

When the matter was done well in all places, the dictator returned to the city, triumphing by decree of the senate and order of the people. By far the greatest sight of the triumph was Cossus, wearing the splendid arms of the killed king. Soldiers sang unusual songs upon him, equating him to Romulus. He put up the arms in the temple of Jupiter Feretrius next to the arms of Romulus, which, having been called splendid first, were alone at that time, with a reverent dedication as a gift. The dictator placed a golden wreath, one pound by weight, as a gift to Jupiter, from public money by order of the people, on the Capitoline.
